INTERNATIONAL

Amnesty International is a movement of 10 million people which mobilizes the humanity in everyone and campaigns for change so we can all enjoy our human rights. Our vision is of a world where those in power keep their promises, respect international law and are held to account. We are independent of any government, political ideology, economic interest or religion and are funded mainly by our membership and individual donations. We believe that acting in solidarity and compassion with people everywhere can change our societies for the better.

EXECUTING COUNTRIES IN 2022

This map indicates the general locations of boundaries and jurisdictions and should not be interpreted as Amnesty International's view on disputed territories.

The 11 countries numbered on the map have persistently executed people in the past five years (2018–2022).

+ indicates that the figure that Amnesty International has calculated is a minimum. Where + is not preceded by a number, this means that Amnesty International is confident that there was more than one execution, but it was impossible to establish a figure.

AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL'S FIGURES ON THE USE OF THE DEATH PENALTY

This report covers the judicial use of the death penalty for the period January to December 2022. As in previous years, information is collected from a variety of sources, including: official figures; judgments; information from individuals sentenced to death and their families and representatives; media reports; and, as specified, other civil society organizations. Amnesty International reports only on executions, death sentences and other aspects of the use of the death penalty, such as commutations and exonerations, where there is reasonable confirmation. In many countries governments do not publish information on their use of the death penalty. In China and Viet Nam, data on the use of the death penalty is classified as a state secret, while little or no information was available on some other countries due to restrictive state practice.

Therefore, for a significant number of countries, Amnesty International's figures on the use of the death penalty are minimum figures. The true overall numbers are likely to be higher.

In 2009 Amnesty International stopped publishing its estimated figures on the use of the death penalty in China, a decision that reflected concerns about how the Chinese authorities misrepresented Amnesty International's numbers. Amnesty International always made clear that the figures it was able to publish on China were significantly lower than the reality, because of the restrictions on access to information. China has yet to publish any figures on the death penalty; however, available information indicates that each year thousands of people are executed and sentenced to death. Amnesty International renews its call on the Chinese authorities to publish information on the use of the death penalty in China.

Where Amnesty International receives and is able to verify new information after publication of this report, it updates its figures online at amnesty.org/en/what-we-do/death-penalty

In tables and lists, where “+” appears after a figure next to the name of a country – for example, Malaysia (16+) – it means that Amnesty International confirmed 16 executions, death sentences or persons under sentence of death in Malaysia but believes that there were more than 16. Where “+” appears after a country name without a figure – for instance, Syria (+) – it means that Amnesty International has corroborated executions, death sentences or persons under sentence of death (more than one) in that country but had insufficient information to provide a credible minimum figure. When calculating global and regional totals, “+” has been counted as two, including for China.

Amnesty International opposes the death penalty in all cases without exception regardless of the nature or circumstances of the crime; guilt, innocence or other characteristics of the individual; or the method used by the state to carry out the execution. The organization campaigns for total abolition of the death penalty.

THE USE OF THE DEATH PENALTY IN 2022

“We have commuted the sentences of 30 of those who are on death row to life imprisonment. [Zambia’s government] has taken a decision, a big decision, to end the death penalty in our country. We will work with Parliament to run through this process as we transition away from the death penalty and focus on the preservation [and] rehabilitation of life while still delivering justice for all.”

GLOBAL TRENDS

Amnesty International’s research on the global use of the death penalty in 2022 revealed a spike in the number of people known to have been executed worldwide, including a significant increase in executions for drug-related offences. This negative trend contrasts with a countervailing positive tendency: a substantial number of countries have taken decisive steps away from the death penalty in 2022, marking remarkable progress against the ultimate cruel, inhuman and degrading punishment.

Known executions, excluding the thousands believed to have taken place in China, significantly increased by 53% on those for 2021, from 579 (2021) to 883 (2022). The executions recorded in 2022 were the highest since 2017 (993).<sup>2</sup> Secrecy and restrictive state practices continued to impair an accurate assessment of the use of the death penalty in several countries, including China, North Korea and Viet Nam.

The sharp increase in known global executions in 2022 was mainly due to the significant increase recorded in the Middle East and North Africa region, where known executions went up by 59%, from 520 in 2021 to 825 in 2022. A staggering 93% of known global executions (excluding China) in 2022 were carried out in the Middle East and North Africa region. Of the 825 executions recorded in the region, 94% were carried out in Iran (70%) and Saudi Arabia (24%); two countries that routinely execute people after unfair trials and where sharp increases in executions were recorded in 2022. In Iran, recorded executions went up to 576 from 314 recorded the previous year, an increase of 83%. In Saudi Arabia, recorded executions tripled from 65 (2021) to 196 (2022), the highest number Amnesty International recorded in the country in 30 years.

Four countries – China, Iran, Saudi Arabia and Singapore – executed people for drug-related offences in violation of international human rights law which prohibits the use of the death penalty for crimes that do not meet the threshold of “most serious crimes” (that is, crimes that involve intentional killing).<sup>3</sup> Executions for these offences were very likely to have been carried out in Viet Nam, but secrecy prevented confirmation. At the end of 2022, 325 executions were recorded for drug-related offences. The number more than doubled the 134 executions recorded for the crime in 2021 and represented 37% of known global executions in 2022. Of the 325 confirmed executions, 255 were recorded in Iran – where drug-related offences accounted for 44% of known executions carried out in 2022 in the country; 57 recorded in Saudi Arabia – where a moratorium on executions for drug-related offences, which the Saudi Human Rights Commission had said was put in place in 2020, ended in 2022; and 11 recorded in Singapore – where executions resumed in 2022 and all executions in the year were for drug-related offences. Amnesty International confirmed executions were carried out for drug-related offences in China but had insufficient information to provide a credible minimum figure.<sup>4</sup> The escalation in the use of the death penalty for drug-related offences is of grave concern to Amnesty International as it is a violation of the right to life, undermines international human rights law and constitutes a threat to the global progress already made against the death penalty.

Notwithstanding the drawbacks documented, remarkable progress against the death penalty was made in 2022. Without doubt, the world continued to move away from the death penalty and only a minority of countries – that are increasingly becoming isolated – actively used the punishment. Six countries abolished the death penalty either fully or partially in 2022.

Four countries – Kazakhstan, Papua New Guinea, Sierra Leone and the Central African Republic – abolished the death penalty for all crimes. In Kazakhstan, a law that abolished the death penalty was officially promulgated in January. By April, amendments to the Criminal Code which removed the death penalty for all crimes became effective in Papua New Guinea. On 21 April 2022, the Abolition of the Death Penalty Act 2021 which removed the death penalty from the laws of Sierra Leone was officially promulgated. On 27 June 2022, President Faustin-Archange Touadéra of Central African Republic signed into law a bill abolishing the death penalty which the National Assembly had passed a month before. By the end of 2022, two countries – Equatorial Guinea and Zambia – had abolished the death penalty for ordinary crimes only. Amnesty International considered these positive actions partial abolitions due to the death penalty remaining in the military laws of the two countries at the end of the year. In 1977, when Amnesty International started its global campaign for the worldwide abolition of the death penalty, only 16 countries had abolished the death penalty for all crimes. At the end of 2022, 112 countries were abolitionist for all crimes and 9 were abolitionist for ordinary crimes only.<sup>5</sup>

Furthermore, Kazakhstan – without any reservations – became a state party to the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty. Gambia, Maldives and Sri Lanka continued to observe official moratoriums on executions. In Asia, the authorities of Malaysia took steps towards reforming the mandatory death penalty; and the Parliament of Indonesia adopted a new Criminal Code that, once effective in 2026, would allow for the commutation of death sentences after 10 years if certain conditions are met. In the sub-Saharan Africa region, legislative steps towards the abolition of the death penalty were taken. The Senate of Liberia, in July, unanimously voted to abolish the death penalty in a penal code bill which was pending before the House of Representatives at the end of 2022. In Ghana, legislative work continued on a bill to amend the Criminal Offences Act 1960 and the Armed Forces Act 1962 to remove death penalty provisions from the two laws.

In December, at the plenary session of the UN General Assembly (UNGA), an unprecedented number of UN member states supported the adoption of the biennial resolution calling for the establishment of a moratorium on executions with a view to fully abolishing the death penalty.<sup>6</sup> Close to two-thirds of the UN membership – 125 UN member states – voted to adopt the ninth resolution on a moratorium on the use of the death penalty. Support for the resolution increased since it was last adopted in December 2020, an indication that the community of UN member states is steadily moving closer to rejecting the death penalty as a lawful punishment under international human rights law. Several states changed their vote positively compared to December 2020. Ghana, Liberia and Myanmar voted in favour after abstaining at the UNGA plenary in 2020; Uganda changed its vote from against to in favour and Papua New Guinea changed from against to abstention. Palau and Solomon Islands voted in favour after not voting at the plenary in 2020.

EXECUTIONS

At least 883 executions were carried out in 2022 compared to 2021 when at least 579 occurred, representing a 53% rise. For the second consecutive year, Amnesty International recorded an increase in executions following a drop in those recorded in 2018, 2019 and 2020.<sup>7</sup>

<sup>6</sup> Since 2007, the UNGA has adopted nine resolutions calling for the establishment of a moratorium on executions with a view to abolishing the death penalty, with increased cross-regional support. UNGA resolutions carry considerable moral and political weight and the continued consideration of resolutions on this issue has kept scrutiny on the use of this cruel punishment as a human rights priority for the international community. The overall number of votes in favour of these resolutions has risen from 104 in 2007 to 125 in 2022.

<sup>7</sup> The total number of executions reported for 2020 represents one of the lowest figures that Amnesty International has recorded in any given year since it began its monitoring of the use of the death penalty in 1979. However, changes in access to information, configuration of countries and research methodology over the decades make it challenging to accurately compare this figure over a longer period.

Similar to previous years, the global recorded totals do not include the thousands of executions that Amnesty International believed were carried out in China, where data on the death penalty is classified as a state secret.<sup>8</sup>

In comparison to 2021 records, executions reduced significantly in Egypt (from 83+ to 24), Iraq (from 17+ to 11+), Japan (from 3 to 1), Somalia (from 21+ to 6+), South Sudan (from 9+ to 5+) and Yemen (from 14+ to 4+). In contrast, Amnesty International recorded notable increases in executions in Iran (from 314+ to 576+), Kuwait (from 0 to 7), Myanmar (from 0 to 4), Palestine (State of) (from 0 to 5), Saudi Arabia (from 65 to 196), Singapore (from 0 to 11) and USA (from 11 to 18).

Three countries – Egypt (24), Iran (at least 576) and Saudi Arabia (196) – accounted for 90% of all known executions. Increases in recorded executions for murder and drug-related offences were largely responsible for the spike in Iran: recorded executions for murder had risen sharply by 75% from 159 in 2021 to 279 in 2022; and rose significantly for drug-related offences by 93% from 132 in 2021 to 255 in 2022. The 196 executions in Saudi Arabia were the highest recorded by Amnesty International in the country in 30 years. The increase in recorded executions for terrorism-related offences and the resumption of executions for drug-related offences were mainly responsible for the significant increase in executions in Saudi Arabia: recorded executions for terrorism-related offences rose from 9 in 2021 to 85 in 2022; and for drug-related offences from 0 in 2021 to 57 in 2022.

Thirteen women were among the 883 people known to have been executed in 2022 as follows: Iran (12), Saudi Arabia (1).

<sup>8</sup> In 2009 Amnesty International stopped publishing its estimated figures on the use of the death penalty in China. Instead, the organization has challenged the authorities to prove their claims that they are achieving their goal of reducing the application of the death penalty by publishing the figures themselves. Little or partial information was available for several other countries (see Note on Amnesty International's figures on the use of the death penalty in this report for further information).

Amnesty International recorded executions in 20 countries compared to 18 in 2021. After a hiatus of several years, executions resumed in five countries: Afghanistan (first since 2018), Kuwait (first since 2017), Myanmar (first in four decades), Palestine (State of) (first since 2017), Singapore (first since 2019). Three countries – Botswana, UAE and Oman – that carried out executions in 2021 did not do so in 2022.

2022 KNOWN EXECUTING COUNTRIES BY INTERNATIONAL GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

- Organization of American States: 1 out of 35 countries carried out executions – USA
- Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe: 2 out of 57 countries executed people – Belarus and the USA
- African Union: 3 out of 55 countries carried out executions – Egypt, Somalia and South Sudan
- League of Arab States: 8 out of 22 countries executed people – Egypt, Iraq, Kuwait, Palestine (State of), Saudi Arabia, Syria, Somalia and Yemen
- Association of Southeast Asian Nations: 3 out of 10 countries carried out executions – Myanmar, Singapore and Viet Nam
- Commonwealth: 2 out of 56 countries executed people – Bangladesh and Singapore
- Organisation Internationale de la Francophonie: 2 out of 54 countries carried out executions – Egypt and Viet Nam
- United Nations: 19 out of 193 member states (10% of UN membership) were known to have executed people – Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Belarus, China, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Kuwait, Myanmar, North Korea, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Somalia, South Sudan, Syria, USA, Viet Nam and Yemen.<sup>10</sup>

DEATH SENTENCES

The total number of death sentences recorded by Amnesty International in 2022 decreased slightly on the 2021 global figure. At least 2,016 new death sentences were imposed, compared to at least 2,052 in 2021. However, variations in the nature and availability of information on death sentences for some countries make the evaluation of this global total in comparison with those of previous years methodologically challenging.

Amnesty International did not receive information on official figures for death sentences imposed in Nigeria and Sri Lanka, countries that reported high official numbers of death sentences in previous years. On the other hand, the authorities of Thailand provided Amnesty International with figures for new death sentences imposed by courts of first instance, unlike in previous years.

In 2022, death sentences were confirmed in 52 countries, four less than in 2021, when 56 countries were known to have imposed death sentences. Five countries were known to have imposed death sentences after a hiatus – Bahrain, Comoros, Laos, Niger and South Korea. No new death sentences were recorded in Belarus, Cameroon, Japan, Malawi, Morocco/Western Sahara, Oman, Sierra Leone, Uganda and Zimbabwe – all countries that were known to have sentenced people to death in 2021.

DEATH SENTENCES RECORDED GLOBALLY IN 2022

Afghanistan (+), Algeria (54), Bahrain (2+) Bangladesh (169+), Botswana (1), China (+), Comoros (2), Democratic Republic of the Congo (76+), Egypt (538), Ethiopia (2+), Gambia (9), Ghana (7), Guyana (4), India (165), Indonesia (112+), Iran (+), Iraq (41+), Jordan (4+), Kenya (79), Kuwait (16+), Laos (5+), Lebanon (2+), Libya (18+), Malaysia (16+), Maldives (1), Mali (8+), Mauritania (5+), Myanmar (37+), Nigeria (77+), Niger (4+), North Korea (+), Pakistan (127+), Palestine (State of) (28), Qatar (+), Saudi Arabia (12+), Singapore (5), Somalia (10+), South Korea (1), South Sudan (4+), Sri Lanka (8+), Sudan (1+), Syria (+), Taiwan (3), Tanzania (11), Thailand (104), Trinidad and Tobago (5+), Tunisia (26+), UAE (2+), USA (21), Viet Nam (102+), Yemen (78+), Zambia (2+).

Amnesty International recorded a significant increase in the number of death sentences imposed in 2022 compared to 2021 in the following countries: Algeria (from 9 to 54), Egypt (from 356+ to 538), India (from 144 to 165), Kenya (from 14 to 79), Kuwait (from 5+ to 16+), Nigeria (from 56+ to 77+), Tunisia (from 3+ to 26+). Significant decreases in the number of death sentences imposed were recorded in the following countries: Bangladesh (from 181+ to 169+), Iraq (from 91+ to 41+), Lebanon (from 12+ to 2+), Malawi (from 11+ to 0), Mali (from 48 to 8+), Mauritania (from 60 to 5+), Myanmar (from 86+ to 37+), Sierra Leone (from 23 to 0), Somalia (from 27+ to 10+), Viet Nam (from 119+ to 102+), Yemen (from 298+ to 78+).

Globally, at least 28,282 people were under sentence of death at the end of 2022.<sup>11</sup>

<sup>11</sup> For several countries where Amnesty International believed a high number of prisoners were under sentence of death, figures were not available or it was impossible to estimate a credible number. These included China, Egypt, Iran, Libya, North Korea and Saudi Arabia.

COMMUTATIONS, PARDONS AND EXONERATIONS

Amnesty International recorded commutations or pardons of death sentences in 26 countries:

Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Barbados, China, Gambia, Ghana, Guyana, India, Indonesia, Iraq, Kazakhstan, Kuwait, Malaysia, Mauritania, Morocco/Western Sahara, Niger, Nigeria, Pakistan, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Sudan, Taiwan, Thailand, USA, Viet Nam, Zambia.<sup>12</sup>

Amnesty International recorded at least 28 exonerations of prisoners under sentence of death in four countries – Kenya (20), Morocco/Western Sahara (1), USA (2), Zimbabwe (5).<sup>13</sup>

THE DEATH PENALTY IN 2022: IN VIOLATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The death penalty continued to be used in ways that violated international law and standards in 2022. Some examples included:

- At least 3 public executions: in Afghanistan (1+) and Iran (2).
- At least 5 people – in Iran – were executed for crimes that occurred when they were below 18 years of age; Amnesty International believed that other people in this category remained on death row in Maldives, Iran and Saudi Arabia.<sup>14</sup>
- People with mental or intellectual disabilities were under sentence of death in several countries, including Iran, Japan, Maldives and USA.
- Death sentences were known to have been imposed after proceedings that did not meet international fair trial standards in several countries, including Afghanistan, Bahrain, Bangladesh, Belarus, China, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Malaysia, Myanmar, North Korea, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Viet Nam and Yemen.
- “Confessions” that may have been extracted through torture or other ill-treatment were used to convict and sentence people to death in Egypt, Iran, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.
- Death sentences were imposed without the defendant being present (in absentia) in Bangladesh and Egypt.

<sup>12</sup> Commutation is the process by which a death sentence is exchanged for a less severe sentence such as a term of imprisonment, often by the judiciary on appeal but sometimes also by the executive. A pardon is granted when the convicted individual is completely exempted from further punishment.

<sup>13</sup> Exoneration is the process whereby, after sentencing and the conclusion of the appeals process, the convicted person is later cleared from blame or acquitted of the criminal charge, and therefore is regarded as innocent in the eyes of the law.

<sup>14</sup> Often the actual age of the prisoner is in dispute because no clear proof of age exists, such as a certificate of registration at birth. Governments should apply a full range of appropriate criteria in cases where age is in dispute. Good practice in assessing age includes drawing on knowledge of physical, psychological and social development. Each of these criteria should be applied in a way that gives the benefit of the doubt in disputed cases so that the individual is treated as a person who was below 18 years of age at the time of the crime, and accordingly should ensure that the death penalty is not applied. Such an approach is consistent with the principle that the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration in all actions concerning children, as required by Article 3(1) of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

THE DEATH PENALTY IN 2022: IN VIOLATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW (CONTINUED)

- Mandatory death sentences were imposed in Afghanistan, Ghana, Iran, Malaysia, Myanmar, Nigeria, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Singapore and Trinidad and Tobago.<sup>15</sup>
- Military courts sentenced civilians to death in Egypt, Libya, Myanmar and Pakistan. Special Courts imposed death sentences in Bangladesh, India, Iran, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.
- The death penalty was used for crimes that did not involve intentional killing, and therefore did not meet the threshold of “most serious crimes” under international law:<sup>16</sup>
  - Drug-related offences: Execution for drug-related offences were recorded in China (+),<sup>17</sup> Iran (255), Saudi Arabia (57) and Singapore (11); the total number of 325 constituted 37% of total executions recorded globally. Information on Viet Nam, which is very likely to have carried out such executions, was unavailable
  - 213 new death sentences known to have been imposed in 9 countries: Bangladesh (6), Egypt (1), China (+),<sup>18</sup> Indonesia (105), Laos (5), Malaysia (8), Pakistan (1), Singapore (5) and Viet Nam (80). In Thailand, of the 195 total number of people under sentence of death at the end of 2022, 121 including 14 women had been convicted of drug-related offences
  - Economic crimes, such as corruption: China and Viet Nam.
  - Apostacy: Libya
  - Kidnapping: Iran and Saudi Arabia
  - Rape: Bangladesh, Egypt, India, Iran, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia.
  - Different forms of “treason”, “acts against national security”, “collaboration” with a foreign entity, “espionage”, “questioning the leader’s policies”, participation in “insurrectional movement and terrorism”, “armed rebellion against the ruler” and other “crimes against the state”, whether or not they led to a loss of life: Iran and Saudi Arabia.

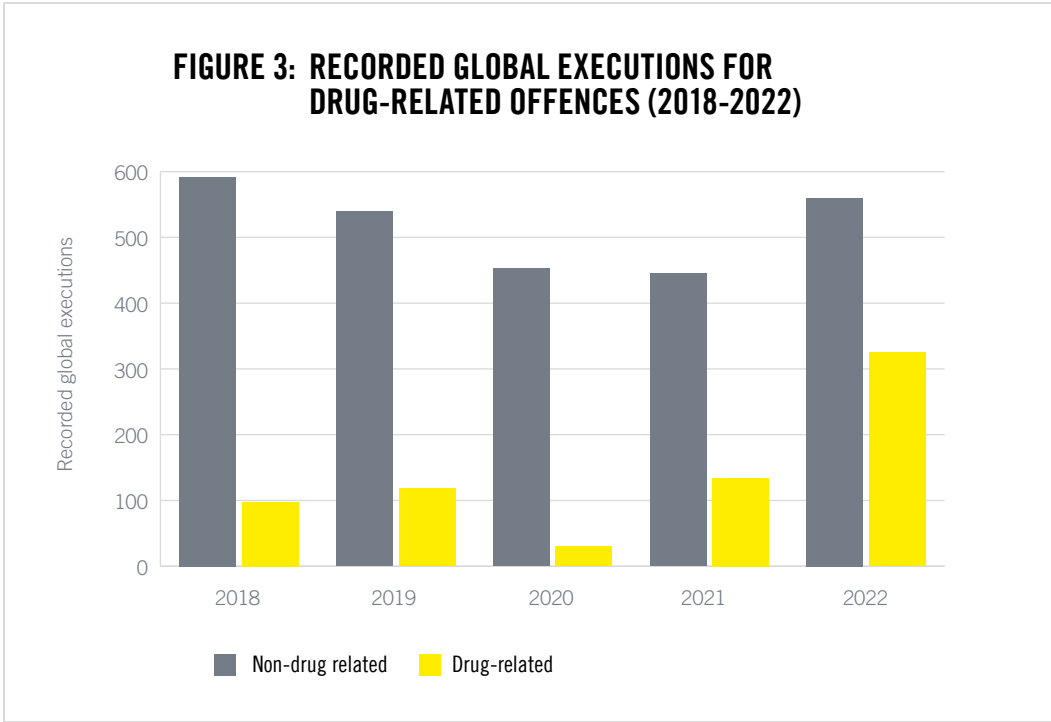

<sup>15</sup> The UN Human Rights Committee has stated that “mandatory death sentences that leave domestic courts with no discretion as to whether to designate the offence as a crime warranting the death penalty, and whether to issue the death sentence in the particular circumstances of the offender, are arbitrary in nature.” Human Rights Committee, General Comment No. 36 on Article 6: Right to Life, UN Doc. CCPR/C/GC/36 [3 September 2019], para. 37.

REGIONAL TRENDS

- Outgoing Governor of Oregon Kate Brown commuted all of this US state's remaining death sentences<sup>19</sup>
- Yearly totals of US death sentences and executions increased, but remained among historically low figures
- For the sixth consecutive year, Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago and the USA were the only three countries in the Americas known to have imposed new death sentences; for the 14th consecutive year, the USA was the only country in the region to execute people

COUNTRY	2022 RECORDED EXECUTIONS	2022 RECORDED DEATH SENTENCES	PEOPLE KNOWN TO BE UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH AT THE END OF 2022
USA <sup>20</sup>	18 in 6 states: Alabama (2) Arizona (3) Mississippi (1) Missouri (2) Oklahoma (5) Texas (5)	21 new death sentences in 12 states Alabama (3) Arizona (1) California (2) Florida (5) Georgia (1) Louisiana (1) Mississippi (1) Missouri (1) North Carolina (2) Oklahoma (1) Pennsylvania (1) Texas (2)	2,276 people, including 48 women, held in 28 jurisdictions. <sup>21</sup>  Eight states held more than 100 people: California 670 Florida 299 Texas 186 Alabama 165 North Carolina 137 Ohio 126 Arizona 110 Pennsylvania 101

As the impact of restrictions put in place in response to the Covid-19 pandemic during 2020 and 2021 waned, the number of recorded US death sentences and executions showed an increase. Nevertheless, this was not significant enough to reverse the long-term downward trends recorded in recent decades.

US executions carried out in 2022 (18) increased by 64% on the 2021 total (11). Despite the rise, and with the exception of the previous two years when proceedings were significantly affected by restrictions put in place in response to the Covid-19 pandemic, the 2022 total remained the lowest recorded since 1991 (Figure 4). All executions were carried out by lethal injection.

Executions carried out in the USA during the period 1991-2022.

<sup>21</sup> The state of New Hampshire, where the death penalty was abolished in 2019, still held one person under sentence of death.

Six US states executed people during 2022. Arizona conducted executions for the first time since 2014, putting to death three men. The authorities of the other five states had all carried out executions in 2021, with most reporting an increase in 2022 on their previous year's tally: Alabama (from one in 2021 to two in 2022), Mississippi (one in 2021 and one in 2022), Missouri (from one to two), Oklahoma (from two to five), Texas (from three to five). Oklahoma – where 10 executions had initially been set for 2022<sup>22</sup> – and Texas together carried out more than half the total of US executions in 2022. The Supreme Court of South Carolina intervened in April to halt the state's first executions since 2011, which were set to be carried out by firing squad.<sup>23</sup>

Figures compiled by the Death Penalty Information Center in Washington, DC, USA, indicated that the number of execution warrants sought in 2022 (55) was significantly higher than in 2021 (45).<sup>24</sup>

Challenges with the sourcing of substances and amended protocols for lethal injections continued to cause a hiatus in executions in several other states.<sup>25</sup> Idaho completed 10 years without executions in June 2022, despite attempts by the state authorities to – unsuccessfully – resume executions.<sup>26</sup> The Governor of Tennessee, Bill Lee, suspended executions and ordered an independent review, after he had to intervene a month earlier to halt an execution one hour before it was due to be carried out due to “a technical oversight” related to the substances for lethal injection.<sup>27</sup> Later in the year, the Governor of Alabama, Kay Ivey, temporarily halted all executions and ordered a system-wide review, after two failed attempts to carry out executions by lethal injection.<sup>28</sup> Ohio executions remained on hold, with its Governor, Mike DeWine, issuing reprieves because of ongoing issues with the state lethal injection method.<sup>29</sup>

New death sentences imposed by US courts slightly increased compared to previous years, rising from 18 in both 2020 and 2021 to 21 in 2022, but remained the second-lowest figure since executions resumed under revised laws after the US Supreme Court ruled the application of the death penalty under the then existing statutes unconstitutional in 1972.<sup>30</sup>

The number of states imposing death sentences in 2022 (12) nearly doubled compared to 2021 (seven). Courts in Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina and Pennsylvania imposed death sentences after a hiatus;<sup>31</sup> while in Nebraska and Tennessee courts did not sentence people to death in 2022, while they had done so in the previous year.

THE DEATH PENALTY IN THE USA

Abolition of the death penalty in Virginia in 2021 brought to 23 the number of US states that had abolished this punishment for all crimes, including 11 since the beginning of the millennium.<sup>32</sup> Of the 27 remaining states, California, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Utah and Wyoming (14, or 52% of all states that retained the death penalty in law) had not carried out executions for at least 10 years, with California, Oregon and Pennsylvania observing governor-ordered moratoriums on executions. (Figure 5)

At the federal level, the US military authorities had not carried out any executions since 1961; the Biden administration continued to observe the temporary moratorium on executions of people convicted under ordinary federal capital laws it had put in place in July 2021. Under the previous Trump administration, executions resumed with 13 sentences carried out between July 2020 and January 2021, after a 17-year hiatus.

FIGURE 5: THE DEATH PENALTY IN THE 50 US STATES

At the end of 2022, 23 US states had fully abolished the death penalty. Of the remaining 27, 14 had not carried out executions in the last 10 years.

While no executions were recorded at federal level in 2022, no progress was recorded with regard to commutation of existing death sentences or legislative measures to abolish the death penalty. Six men continued to face capital prosecution before unfair military commissions at the US naval base at Guantánamo Bay, Cuba.

<sup>32</sup> The states of Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Virginia and Washington. The District of Columbia has also abolished the death penalty.

Several cases of those who faced executions in 2022 were affected by violations of restrictions on the use of the death penalty established under international human rights law and standards, including concerns of unfair trial;<sup>33</sup> racial discrimination and bias;<sup>34</sup> and breach of protections for those with psycho-social (mental) and intellectual disabilities.<sup>35</sup>

Two men who had been previously convicted and sentenced to death had the charges against them dismissed in Illinois and Pennsylvania, after the courts considered evidence of inadequate legal representation and official misconduct in their cases, bringing the total number of such exonerations since 1973 by year end to 190.<sup>36</sup>

Outside the USA, Guyana and Trinidad and Tobago imposed the only other known nine death sentences in the Americas region. Trinidad and Tobago – the only country in the region to retain the mandatory death penalty for murder – held more than half (64%) of the 67 people known to be under sentence of death outside the USA.

Nine countries – Antigua and Barbuda, Bahamas, Belize, Cuba, Dominica, Guatemala, Jamaica, Saint Kitts and Nevis and Saint Lucia – did not hold anyone under sentence of death and did not impose any new death sentences. Grenada and Saint Vincent and the Grenadines each continued to hold one person formally under sentence of death, but neither death sentence can be implemented due to court rulings.

The Court of Appeal of Guyana and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council (the final appellate court of Trinidad and Tobago) upheld the constitutionality of the death penalty in Guyana and of the mandatory death penalty in Trinidad and Tobago, respectively.<sup>37</sup>

ASIA-PACIFIC

REGIONAL TRENDS

- The military authorities carried out the first executions in Myanmar in four decades, arbitrarily depriving four people, including two-high profile opposition politicians, of their lives after grossly unfair and secretive proceedings; executions resumed after a hiatus in Afghanistan and Singapore.
- Papua New Guinea became the 21st country in the Asia-Pacific region to have abolished the death penalty for all crimes; the Minister of Home Affairs of Maldives and the President of Sri Lanka each confirmed that death sentences would not be implemented in their country.
- China remained the world's leading executioner but continued to keep its death penalty figures shrouded in secrecy. Restrictive state practices, particularly in North Korea and Viet Nam, continued to impede an accurate assessment of the use of the death penalty in the Asia-Pacific region, which has the highest number of executions in the world.

<sup>39</sup> Written answer to Parliament, Third meeting, fifth term, fourteenth Parliament, 4 October 2022. Data given as of 23 September 2022. The total included 891 people (67%) under sentence of death for drug-related offences. The official figure of 1,320 published by the authorities in February 2023 suggests that commutations of death sentences could have taken place after September 2022 and that the end of the year total could be lower.

The year began with debates before the parliament of Papua New Guinea on a bill to amend the Criminal Code and remove the death penalty for all crimes. The Parliament adopted the bill on 20 January 2022, which became effective on 12 April 2022.<sup>41</sup> Further positive commitments were made by other administrations in the Asia-Pacific region during the year: Imran Abdulla, Minister of Home Affairs of Maldives, confirmed before Parliament in June that the government would continue to observe its policy of a moratorium on the implementation of the death penalty;<sup>42</sup> and Ranil Wickremesinghe, President of Sri Lanka, confirmed through an undertaking to the Supreme Court in an ongoing legal challenge that he would not authorize the implementation of the death penalty.<sup>43</sup> Moreover, the authorities of Malaysia took steps towards reforming the mandatory death penalty and the Parliament of Indonesia adopted a new Criminal Code that, once effective in 2026, would allow for the commutation of death sentences after 10 years if certain conditions are met.

On the other hand, the number of countries known to have carried out executions in the region during the year increased from five in 2021 to eight in 2022. The military authorities carried out the first executions in Myanmar in four decades, arbitrarily depriving four people of their lives after grossly unfair and secretive proceedings.<sup>44</sup> The Taliban authorities resumed judicial executions, including publicly, in Afghanistan, after none were recorded in the country for the previous three years.<sup>45</sup>

The Singapore authorities executed people for the first time since 2019, after appeals in key cases were dismissed. The governments of India and Taiwan continued to observe a hiatus in executions for the second consecutive year.

The number of new death sentences recorded regionally in 2022 (861) increased by 5% on the 2021 total (819), reaching similar figures to those recorded by Amnesty International before the Covid-19 pandemic put court proceedings in several countries on hold.<sup>46</sup> The increase was partly attributable to the fact that the Thailand authorities provided Amnesty International with figures for new death sentences imposed by courts of first instance, unlike in previous years. However, a significant rise on 2021 was recorded in India, where the 165 known total represented the highest yearly figure registered since 2000.<sup>47</sup> The recorded death sentences in Pakistan (at least 127) remained as high as in 2021 (at least 129). While the numbers of death sentences imposed in this country in recent years increased, the yearly total remained lower than pre-pandemic levels (see Figure 7). The high rate of new death sentences recorded by Amnesty International in Indonesia in 2021 also continued into and throughout 2022, leaving the yearly total for that country substantially unchanged (at least 114 in 2021 to at least 112 in 2022). The known number of new death sentences imposed in Singapore halved compared to 2021 (from 10 to 5).

<sup>46</sup> In 2018 and 2019 respectively, at least 1,100 and 1,227 new death sentences were known to have been imposed in the Asia-Pacific region.

The number of countries known to have sentenced people to death in 2022 (17) slightly increased compared to 2021 and 2020 (16). Courts in Laos and South Korea were known to have imposed death sentences in 2022, while none were recorded in these countries for 2021. No new death sentences were known to have been imposed in Japan in 2022, while three people were sentenced to hanging in 2021.

Secrecy surrounding figures and limited access to information in China, North Korea and Viet Nam, as well as lack of transparency in several other countries, made it impossible to verify reports and assess the true extent of the use of the death penalty in the region. Based on its monitoring, Amnesty International believed that the number of death sentences imposed and executions carried out in China during the year remained in the thousands. Similarly, lack of access to North Korea and independent media sources continued to make it impossible for Amnesty International to verify reports and information it received on the use of the death penalty in this country. Amnesty International considers it very likely that executions were carried out, including publicly, and that death sentences were imposed at a sustained rate including after summary trials. There were concerns that the death penalty was used for a range of acts that either did not meet the threshold of the “most serious crimes” to which the use of the death penalty must be restricted under international law, or which could not be considered to constitute recognizable criminal offences complying with international human rights law requirements. Partial disclosures in Laos and Viet Nam suggested that these countries resorted to the death penalty extensively, but it was impossible on the basis of this incomplete information to determine estimates for the year. Therefore the figures included in this report are based on Amnesty International’s monitoring.

The use of the death penalty in the Asia-Pacific region continued to violate international law and standards in many cases. In Myanmar, the military authorities continued to resort to this punishment as a tool of state repression against protesters and political opponents. Four men were arbitrarily executed in secret. The proceedings against them before a military-controlled court were secretive and grossly unfair. Following the issuing of Martial Law Order 3/2021,<sup>48</sup> the military had transferred authority from civilian courts to special or existing military tribunals to try cases of civilians in some townships. These tribunals oversaw trials involving a wide range of offences, including those punishable with the death penalty, through summary proceedings and without a right to appeal. The alarming developments recorded in 2021, which saw an increase in the imposition of death sentences as part of ongoing and widespread persecution, intimidation and harassment of and violence against the population, including protesters and journalists, continued in 2022. Although the number of recorded death sentences in 2022 decreased by 57% compared to 2021 (86), the 37 people reported to have been sentenced to death were convicted in similarly unfair proceedings.

The death penalty was extensively used in the region for offences that did not meet the threshold of the “most serious crimes” to which the use of the death penalty must be restricted under international law.<sup>49</sup> Executions of people convicted of drug-related offences were recorded in China and also Singapore, where all 11 people executed in 2022 had been sentenced to the mandatory death penalty for drug trafficking. Executions for this offence were also believed to have been carried out in Viet Nam. New drug-related death sentences were known to have been imposed in:

- Bangladesh (6 out of 169);
- China (no figure available);
- Indonesia (105, or 94% of all recorded death sentences; this includes the only woman known to have been sentenced to death in the country in 2022);
- Laos, where all five recorded new death sentences were imposed for drug trafficking;
- Malaysia, where half of the 16 recorded total were imposed for drug trafficking;
- Pakistan, where one new death sentence was recorded for drug trafficking;
- Singapore, where all five mandatory new death sentences were related to drug trafficking;<sup>50</sup>
- and Viet Nam (80, or 78% of the recorded total).

In Thailand, official figures indicated that of the 195 people under sentence of death at the end of 2022, 121 including 14 women had been convicted of drug-related offences. In November, the Parliament of Sri Lanka adopted the Poisons, Opium and Dangerous Drugs (Amendment) Act, which made possession and trafficking of 5g or more of methamphetamine punishable by death.<sup>51</sup> On the other hand, in December, the National Assembly of Pakistan adopted a bill abolishing the death penalty for drug-related offences.<sup>52</sup>

<sup>50</sup> This total included the mandatory death sentence imposed on a man as a result of the Attorney General's Office not issuing a “certificate of substantial assistance”. The man had been found by the judge to have been involved only in the transporting of drugs, but the judge could not exercise sentencing discretion between death and life imprisonment with caning because the certificate was not issued.

Economic crimes, such as corruption, which also do not meet the threshold of the “most serious crimes” under international law and standards, were punished by death in China and Viet Nam during the year. Amnesty International recorded 10 cases involving former officials who were convicted of corruption in China and received a “suspended” death sentence – with the possibility of commutation after two years – in an apparent increase compared to previous years.

Sentences related to sexual offences not resulting in death, which also do not meet the threshold of the “most serious crimes”, were recorded in several countries including Bangladesh (13), India (5)<sup>53</sup> and Pakistan (7).

Amnesty International recorded four new death sentences imposed in Pakistan for “blasphemy”, an act that does not constitute a recognizable criminal offence complying with requirements under international human rights law.

People who were below 18 years of age at the time of the offence for which they had been convicted remained under sentence of death in Maldives. A man with an intellectual disability was executed in Singapore in April.<sup>54</sup>

In many countries across the Asia-Pacific region, Amnesty International was concerned that proceedings did not meet international standards for a fair trial. The Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Afghanistan raised serious concerns in relation to the independence and qualifications of those appointed by the Taliban to adjudicate cases, the frequent lack of separation between investigating officials and the judiciary, as well as over the common lack of due process.<sup>55</sup>

Death sentences were imposed by courts established under emergency legislation or to try specific offences instead of ordinary courts, including through expedited proceedings in Bangladesh, India and Pakistan. Among other examples, in Bangladesh 14 death sentences were imposed on people convicted and sentenced by the International Crimes Tribunal, a Bangladeshi court established to investigate war crimes and other gross violations of human rights committed during the country’s 1971 War of Independence. On 29 November, the Parliament of Singapore adopted the Post-appeal Applications in Capital Cases Bill,<sup>56</sup> introducing a new procedure for post-appeal applications in capital cases which further restricts the circumstances in which those facing the death penalty can apply for a review of the case after the ordinary appeals process is concluded. This had the effect of curtailing the grounds and modalities for critical last-minute appeals to halt executions.

REGIONAL TRENDS

- Kazakhstan abolished the death penalty for all crimes and ratified a key UN treaty on abolition.
- Russia and Tajikistan continued to observe moratoriums on executions.
- Following its exit from the Council of Europe, Russia ceased to be a signatory to Protocol No. 6 to the European Convention on Human Rights concerning the abolition of the death penalty.

In Belarus, one man was executed<sup>58</sup> and one man was believed to be on death row at the end of 2022.<sup>59</sup> In May, Belarusian authorities adopted a new law introducing the death penalty for “attempts to carry out acts of terrorism”, in violation of the restriction on the use of the death penalty related to “the most serious crimes”<sup>60</sup> and the stated goal of abolition under Article 6 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR),<sup>61</sup> to which Belarus is a state party.<sup>62</sup>

In Kazakhstan, the law which removed the death penalty from the laws of the country became effective in January.<sup>63</sup> In March, Kazakhstan became a state party to the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR, without any reservations.<sup>64</sup> In June, constitutional amendments entered into force that enshrined the abolition of the death penalty in the Constitution.<sup>65</sup>

<sup>57</sup> According to the Kazakhstani authorities, in January, the case of the last remaining person on death row was sent for review to change the death sentence to life imprisonment. However, by the end of 2022, there was no publicly available information on whether this death sentence was commuted.

REGIONAL TRENDS

- Recorded executions increased by 59%.
- 94% of executions recorded in the region were carried out in Iran (70%) and Saudi Arabia (24%).
- Executions resumed in Kuwait and the State of Palestine for the first time since 2017.
- Recorded death sentences decreased slightly and were imposed in 16 countries, down from 17 in 2021.

<sup>66</sup> Amnesty International classifies Israel as abolitionist for ordinary crimes because its laws provide for the death penalty only for exceptional crimes such as crimes under military law or crimes committed in exceptional circumstances. The last execution took place in 1962.

<sup>67</sup> The 18 recorded death sentences were imposed by courts in western Libya, in areas under the control of the Government of National Unity (GNU). Amnesty International was able to confirm that death sentences were also passed by military courts in eastern Libya in territories under the de facto control of the Libyan Arab Armed Forces (LAAF) armed group. However, given that proceedings by such courts are shrouded in secrecy and independent observers are not granted access, Amnesty International is not able to provide a credible minimum figure on the number of death sentences passed. No executions had been carried out in Libya since the 2011-armed conflict.

The number of executions recorded by Amnesty International in the Middle East and North Africa region increased significantly by 59% from 520 in 2021 to 825 in 2022; and recorded death sentences decreased slightly from 834 in 2021 to 827 in 2022.

Amnesty International recorded executions in eight countries in the region – Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Palestine (State of), Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen. No executions were recorded in Oman and United Arab Emirates (UAE), countries that executed in 2021. Executions resumed in Kuwait and the State of Palestine for the first time since 2017. In September, the Hamas de facto administration in the Gaza Strip executed five people – three for murder and two for spying for Israel. In November, Kuwait executed seven people – one Ethiopian woman, one Syrian man, one Pakistani man and four Kuwaiti men.<sup>69</sup> Compared to 2021, recorded executions reduced in the following countries: Egypt (83 to 24); Iraq (17 to 11); and Yemen (14 to 4). The 825 executions recorded in the region in 2022 were the highest recorded by Amnesty International since 2017.

Iran and Saudi Arabia were mainly responsible for the significant increase in recorded executions in 2022. Of the total number of executions recorded in the region, 94% were carried out in Iran (70%) and Saudi Arabia (24%).

<sup>69</sup> Amnesty International, Kuwait: Authorities must halt imminent execution of seven prisoners (News story, 15 November 2022), <https://www.amnesty.org/en/latest/news/2022/11/kuwait-authorities-must-halt-imminent-execution-of-seven-prisoners/>; “Kuwait hangs seven people in first executions since 2017”, Al Jazeera, 16 November 2022, <https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2022/11/16/kuwait-executes-seven-people-despite-international-outcry>

Amnesty International recorded 576 executions in Iran, an increase of 83% compared to 2021 when 314 executions were recorded.<sup>70</sup> Of the 576 executions recorded by Amnesty International, 279 (48%) were for murder; 255 (44%) were for drug-related offences; 21 were for rape; 18 were for moharebeh (enmity against God);<sup>71</sup> and three were for unknown crimes. Two executions were carried out in public, and 12 women were executed. During the year, the Iranian authorities executed five people who were under the age of 18 at the time of the offence for which they had been convicted.<sup>72</sup> Increases in recorded executions for murder and drug-related offences were largely responsible for the 83% spike in recorded executions in Iran. Recorded executions for murder had risen sharply by 75% from 159 in 2021 to 279 in 2022; and spiked for drug-related offences by 93%, from 132 in 2021 to 255 in 2022.<sup>73</sup> The Iranian authorities continued to use the death penalty as a tool of political repression and to disproportionately execute members of ethnic minorities as part of the long-term, entrenched discrimination and repression of these groups.<sup>74</sup>

<sup>71</sup> Two were in relation to the nationwide protests that have erupted in Iran since 16 September 2022.

<sup>72</sup> International human rights law strictly prohibits the use of the death penalty for people who were below the age of 18 at the time of the offence for which they have been convicted.

<sup>73</sup> Between 2018 and 2020, the authorities considerably reduced drug-related executions. However, in 2021, at least 132 people were executed for drug-related offences, accounting for 42% of overall recorded executions and representing more than a five-fold rise from 2020 (23). The law still provides for a mandatory death penalty once courts convict a person of being in possession of specific amounts of drugs; the amount varies according to the type of drug.

<sup>74</sup> Amnesty International, Iran: Horrific wave of executions must be stopped (News story, 27 July 2022), <https://www.amnesty.org/en/latest/news/2022/07/iran-horrific-wave-of-executions-must-be-stopped>

In Saudi Arabia, the Saudi Press Agency, the official news agency of the Saudi Arabia government, officially published details of the execution of 148 people – one woman and 147 men – in 2022 based on announcements by the Ministry of Interior. Of the 148 executions reported, 84 were for terrorism-related offences; 33 for murder; 20 for drug-related offences; four for rape and kidnap; three for rape, robbery and drug-related offences; one for murder and rape; one for rape; one for robbery, assault and attempted murder; and one for robbery, rape and torture. Of the 148 people reported to have been executed, 112 were Saudi Arabian nationals. The others were foreign nationals from the following countries: Egypt (4); Ethiopia (3); Indonesia (2); Jordan (3); Myanmar (1); Nepal (1); Nigeria (2); Pakistan (3); Palestine (State of) (1); Syria (6) and Yemen (10).

However, in response to Amnesty International's request for information on the use of the death penalty in the country, the Saudi Human Rights Commission informed the organization that 196 people were executed in 2022 – which tripled the 65 executions recorded in 2021 and is the highest number recorded by Amnesty International in the country in 30 years. Of the 196 people executed, the Saudi Human Rights Commission said that 85 were convicted of terrorism-related offences and 57 of drug-related offences. The execution of the 57 people for drug-related offences marked the resumption of executions for drug-related offences in Saudi Arabia following a moratorium on executions, for these offences, in place since 2020 according to the Commission.<sup>75</sup>

For the second year running, recorded executions continued to increase at an alarming rate in Saudi Arabia, a sharp contrast to the 27 executions recorded in the country in 2020. On a single day in March, the Saudi authorities carried out the mass execution of 81 people.<sup>76</sup> The fact that the number of executions the Saudi Arabia Human Rights Commission provided to Amnesty International is much higher than those announced during the year by the Saudi Press Agency, raises serious concerns about Saudi Arabia's transparency on the use of the death penalty.

The Iranian authorities continued to use the death penalty as a tool of political repression and to disproportionately execute members of ethnic minorities as part of the long-term, entrenched discrimination and repression of these groups.

Amnesty International recorded the imposition of death sentences in all countries in the region except Israel, Morocco/Western Sahara and Oman, a total number of 16 (down from 17 in 2021). Of the 827 death sentences recorded in 2022, 538 (65%) were imposed in Egypt.<sup>77</sup> Of the 538 death sentences, seven were imposed for drug-related offences; 13 for rape and other sexual offences; and 47 on women. Compared to 2021, increases in death sentences were recorded in Algeria (9 to 54), Bahrain (0 to 2), Egypt (356 to 538), Kuwait (5 to 16), Palestine (State of) (21 to 28), Saudi Arabia (8 to 12), Tunisia (3 to 26). In contrast, significant reductions in death sentences were recorded in Iraq (91 to 41), Jordan (11 to 4), Lebanon (12 to 2) and Yemen (298 to 78). Amnesty International was able to confirm that death sentences were imposed in Iran but had insufficient information to provide a credible minimum figure. At least 20 commutations and at least seven pardons were granted in the region.

<sup>77</sup> Many of the death sentences were imposed following grossly unfair trials, including by emergency courts, marred by credible reports of torture and enforced disappearances.

The sub-Saharan Africa region made remarkable progress against the death penalty in 2022. The number of executions, executing countries and death sentences recorded during the year substantially reduced, while two countries abolished the death penalty for all crimes and another two abolished it for ordinary crimes only.

Recorded executions in the region went down by 67%, from 33 in 2021 to 11 in 2022. Executions were recorded in two countries – Somalia and South Sudan – the lowest number of executing countries recorded by Amnesty International in the region since 2017. No executions were recorded in Botswana, which had carried out executions in 2021. Compared to 2021, recorded executions reduced sharply in Somalia from 21 to 6; and went down in South Sudan from 9 to 5.

Recorded death sentences decreased by 20%, from 373 in 2021 to 298 in 2022. The death sentences recorded in 2022 were imposed in 16 countries, a decrease of 3 compared to 2021. The 20% drop in recorded death sentences was due to notable reductions in recorded death sentences in the following countries in 2022 compared to 2021: Botswana (6 to 1); Cameroon (4 to 0); Democratic Republic of the Congo (81 to 76); Malawi (11 to 0); Mali (48 to 8); Somalia (27 to 10); Sierra Leone (23 to 0), South Sudan (10 to 4); Sudan (7 to 1). Despite these decreases, two countries had significant increases of recorded death sentences in 2022 compared to 2021: Kenya (14 to 79) and Nigeria (56 to 77).

At least 240 commutations and at least 67 pardons were granted, and at least 27 exonerations occurred across several countries in the region. A significant number of commutations were granted in the following countries: Kenya (12); Malawi (25); Nigeria (48); Sierra Leone (117) and Zambia (30). In Nigeria, 56 people were pardoned by the authorities; while 20 people in Kenya and 5 people in Zimbabwe were exonerated by the courts. At the end of the year, at least 6,168 people were under sentence of death in sub-Saharan Africa, with those in Nigeria constituting 51% (3,167) of the recorded number.

Four countries in the region abolished the death penalty either fully or partially: Sierra Leone and the Central African Republic abolished the death penalty for all crimes while Equatorial Guinea and Zambia abolished the death penalty for ordinary crimes only.

In Sierra Leone, on 21 April 2022, the Abolition of the Death Penalty Act 2021 – which removed the death penalty from the laws of the country – was officially promulgated.<sup>78</sup> On 27 May 2022, the National Assembly of the Central African Republic voted in favour of a bill abolishing the death penalty in the country.<sup>79</sup> A month later, on 27 June 2022, President Faustin-Archange Touadéra signed the bill into law.<sup>80</sup>

On 19 September, the Vice President of Equatorial Guinea, Teodoro Nguema Obiang Mangue, announced that Equatorial Guinea had abolished the death penalty.<sup>81</sup> This followed the signing of a new Penal Code, dated 17 August 2022, by President Teodoro Nguema Mbasogo.<sup>82</sup> The Penal Code in Equatorial Guinea no longer provides for the death penalty. However, at the end of the year the death penalty remained in the Military Code of Justice for crimes under military laws.<sup>83</sup>

<sup>87</sup> Burkina Faso (2018), Equatorial Guinea (2022) and Zambia (2022) have abolished the death penalty for ordinary crimes only. These are countries whose laws provide for the death penalty only for exceptional crimes such as crimes under military law or crimes committed in exceptional circumstances.

ANNEX I: RECORDED EXECUTIONS AND DEATH SENTENCES IN 2022

This report only covers the judicial use of the death penalty and does not include figures for extrajudicial executions. Amnesty International only reports figures for which it can find reasonable confirmation, although the true figures for some countries are significantly higher. Some states intentionally conceal death penalty proceedings; others do not keep or make available data on the numbers of death sentences and executions.

Where “+” appears after a figure next to the name of a country – for example, Iraq (11+) – it means that Amnesty International confirmed 11 executions or death sentences in Iraq but believes there were more than 11. Where “+” appears after a country name without a figure – for instance, Viet Nam (+) – it means that Amnesty International has corroborated executions or death sentences (more than one) in that country but had insufficient information to provide a credible minimum figure. When calculating global and regional totals, “+” has been counted as two including for China.

ANNEX II: ABOLITIONIST AND RETENTIONIST COUNTRIES

AS OF 31 DECEMBER 2022

Close to three quarters of the countries in the world have now abolished the death penalty in law or practice. As of 31 December 2022, the numbers were as follows:

Abolitionist for all crimes: 112

Abolitionist for ordinary crimes only: 9

Abolitionist in practice: 23

Total abolitionist in law or practice: 144

Retentionist: 55

The following are lists of countries in the four categories: abolitionist for all crimes, abolitionist for ordinary crimes only, abolitionist in practice and retentionist.

1. ABOLITIONIST FOR ALL CRIMES

Countries whose laws do not provide for the death penalty for any crime:

Albania, Andorra, Angola, Argentina, Armenia, Australia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Benin, Bhutan, Bolivia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Burundi, Cabo Verde, Cambodia, Canada, Chad, Central African Republic, Colombia, Congo, Cook Islands, Costa Rica, Côte d'Ivoire, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Djibouti, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Estonia, Fiji, Finland, France, Gabon, Georgia, Germany, Greece, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Haiti, Honduras, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Kazakhstan, Kiribati, Kosovo, Kyrgyzstan, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Madagascar, Malta, Marshall Islands, Mauritius, Mexico, Micronesia, Moldova, Monaco, Mongolia, Montenegro, Mozambique, Namibia, Nauru, Nepal, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Niue, North Macedonia, Norway, Palau, Panama, Papua New Guinea, Paraguay, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Rwanda, Samoa, San Marino, Sao Tome and Principe, Senegal, Serbia, Seychelles, Sierra Leone, Slovakia, Slovenia, Solomon Islands, South Africa, Spain, Suriname, Sweden, Switzerland, Timor-Leste, Togo, Türkiye, Turkmenistan, Tuvalu, Ukraine, United Kingdom, Uruguay, Uzbekistan, Vanuatu, Vatican City, Venezuela.

2. ABOLITIONIST FOR ORDINARY CRIMES ONLY

Countries whose laws provide for the death penalty only for exceptional crimes such as crimes under military law or crimes committed in exceptional circumstances:<sup>88</sup>

Brazil, Burkina Faso, Chile, El Salvador, Equatorial Guinea, Guatemala, Israel, Peru, Zambia.

3. ABOLITIONIST IN PRACTICE

Countries that retain the death penalty for ordinary crimes such as murder but can be considered abolitionist in practice in that they have not executed anyone during the last 10 years or more and are believed to have a policy or established practice of not carrying out executions:

4. RETENTIONIST

Countries that retain the death penalty for ordinary crimes:

Afghanistan, Antigua and Barbuda, Bahamas, Bahrain, Bangladesh, Barbados, Belarus, Belize, Botswana, China, Comoros, Cuba, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Dominica, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gambia, Guyana, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Jamaica, Japan, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Lesotho, Libya, Malaysia, Myanmar, Nigeria, North Korea, Oman, Pakistan, Palestine (State of), Qatar, Saint Kitts and Nevis, Saint Lucia, Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Somalia, South Sudan, Sudan, Syria, Taiwan, Thailand, Trinidad and Tobago, Uganda, United Arab Emirates, United States of America, Viet Nam, Yemen, Zimbabwe.

<sup>89</sup> Russia introduced a moratorium on executions in August 1996. However, executions were carried out between 1996 and 1999 in the Chechen Republic.

ANNEX III: RATIFICATION OF INTERNATIONAL TREATIES

AS OF 31 DECEMBER 2022

The community of nations has adopted four international treaties providing for the abolition of the death penalty. One is of worldwide scope; three are regional.

Below are short descriptions of the four treaties, a list of states parties to the treaties and lists of countries which have signed but not ratified the treaties, as of 31 December 2022. States may become states parties to international treaties either by acceding to them or by ratifying them. Signature indicates an intention to become a party at a later date through ratification. States are bound under international law to respect the provisions of treaties to which they are a party, and to do nothing to defeat the object and purpose of treaties which they have signed.

SECOND OPTIONAL PROTOCOL TO THE INTERNATIONAL COVENANT ON CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS, AIMING AT THE ABOLITION OF THE DEATH PENALTY

The Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty, adopted by the UN General Assembly in 1989, is of worldwide scope. It provides for the total abolition of the death penalty but allows states parties to retain the death penalty in time of war if they make a reservation to that effect at the time of ratifying or acceding to the Protocol. Any state which is a party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights can become a party to the Protocol.

States parties: Albania, Andorra, Angola, Argentina, Armenia, Australia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Benin, Bolivia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Brazil, Bulgaria, Cabo Verde, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Djibouti, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Estonia, Finland, France, Gabon, Gambia, Georgia, Germany, Greece, Guinea-Bissau, Honduras, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Latvia, Liberia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Madagascar, Malta, Mexico, Moldova, Monaco, Mongolia, Montenegro, Mozambique, Namibia, Nepal, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, North Macedonia, Norway, Palestine (State of), Panama, Paraguay, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Rwanda, San Marino, Sao Tome and Principe, Serbia, Seychelles, Slovakia, Slovenia, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Timor-Leste, Togo, Türkiye, Turkmenistan, Ukraine, United Kingdom, Uruguay, Uzbekistan, Venezuela (total: 90).

PROTOCOL TO THE AMERICAN CONVENTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS TO ABOLISH THE DEATH PENALTY

The Protocol to the American Convention on Human Rights to Abolish the Death Penalty, adopted by the General Assembly of the Organization of American States in 1990, provides for the total abolition of the death penalty but allows states parties to retain the death penalty in wartime if they make a reservation to that effect at the time of ratifying or acceding to the Protocol. Any state party to the American Convention on Human Rights can become a party to the Protocol.

DEATH SENTENCES AND EXECUTIONS

2022

Amnesty International's monitoring of the global use of the death penalty in 2022 revealed an increase of 53% in recorded executions (excluding China). Twenty countries are known to have executed a total of 883 people compared to 579 in 18 countries in 2021.

This global spike in known executions was mainly due to a significant increase recorded in the Middle East and North Africa region, where figures rose by 59% from 520 in 2021 to 825 in 2022. Of these, 70% were carried out in Iran, where recorded executions increased by 83% from 314 in 2021 to 576 in 2022, and 24% in Saudi Arabia, where recorded executions tripled from 65 in 2021 to 196 in 2022.

Executions resumed in Afghanistan, Kuwait, Myanmar, Palestine (State of) and Singapore. While notable increases compared to 2021 were recorded in Iran, Kuwait, Myanmar, Palestine (State of), Saudi Arabia, Singapore and USA, secrecy and restrictive practices in China, North, Korea and Viet Nam, among other states, continued to impair accurate assessments of the use of the death penalty.

While international human rights law prohibits the use of the death penalty for crimes that do not meet the threshold of "most serious crimes" (crimes involving intentional killing), at least four countries - China, Iran, Saudi Arabia and Singapore - carried out executions for drug-related offences: 325 such executions were recorded, more than double the number recorded in 2021. In Iran this constituted 44% (255 people) of all known executions in the country.

However, the world made remarkable progress towards abolition. In 2022, the number of fully abolitionist countries reached 112, while nine were abolitionist for ordinary crimes only and a further 23 were abolitionist in practice. Six countries abolished the death penalty either fully or partially.

Amnesty International opposes the death penalty in all cases without exception.
